

President of Liberia and President of the Baptist World Alliance, attended with Dr. Denny and with Mr. Lewis Hoffacker, U.S. Ambassador to Cameroon. Several students from the Cameroon at colleges and universities in the Washington, D.C. area had been invited. Diplomatic personnel from other African countries, media people from the Washington area, the BWA executive committee and several representatives of United States governmental agencies were in attendance.

At the close of the reception, the College Singers sang for the guests and as had been true all across the United States and Canada, this talented group of young Africans captured the attention and hearts of all present. Afterwards, a tour of Washington, D.C. under nightlights introduced the College Singers to some of the most impressive sights in our Nation's Capitol.

TV Viewers Praise Singers

November 25 dawned a day of excitement and surprises. The Singers sang on "Harambee" and the show's host, Lovell Dyatt, interviewed Cameroon pastor Samuel L. Lysonge and NAB missionary Fred Holzimmer. Dyatt announced the group's forthcoming concerts. Following the television program, WTOP received more than 70 telephone calls and 35 letters praising the College Singers.

From the television studios the College Singers proceeded to the Rayburn House Office Building where they were received in the office of Congressman Collier. After exchanging greetings the group enjoyed a subway ride to the Senate Office Building where Senator Percy met them. He introduced the students to a crowd awaiting their concert.
